Drilling at First Oil Well Is Halted; Second Planned

Drilling operations at the first test oil well sunk in Fayette County by the Kewanee Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., will be halted "within the next few days," but the rig set up May 12 on the Edwards Hopkins farm on the Creek Rd. will be moved to another location "within 4 or 5 miles of Washington C. H." in the near future.

This was disclosed Wednesday morning by telephone by a spokesman of the Kewanee Co. in Tulsa after crewmen at the Hopkins farm reported that the granite bedrock had been struck there at 4,706 feet Tuesday.

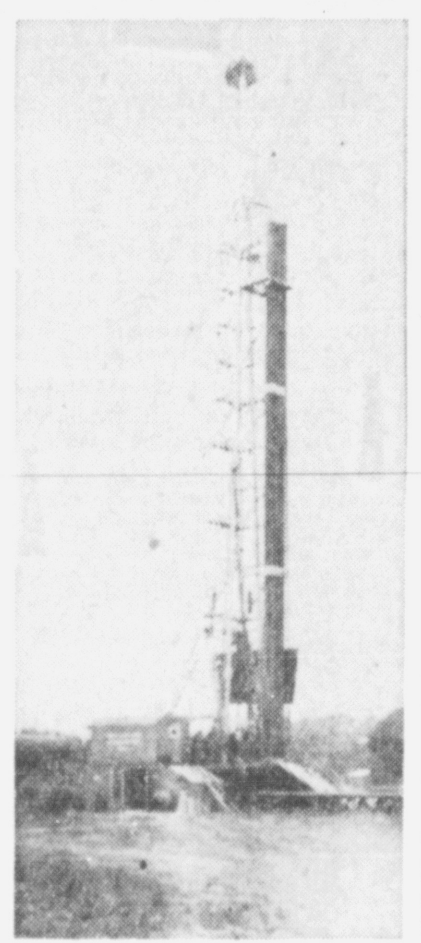

The spokesman, however, did not say whether oil had been found or disclose specifically where the next well will be drilled.

When the bedrock was struck, a core sample was obtained with the diamond drill to determine the character of the granite. Electrical equipment from Parkersburg, W. Va., was brought in and work of logging the well for all possible information regarding the formation at various depths is being carried.

APPARENTLY, the drilling crew here was without information as to where the next well will be drilled, but getting in touch with the main office of Kewanee will be drilled, office of Kewanee headquarters at Tulsa, the Record-Herald was told by a spokesman for the company that it will be drilled near here "without delay."

"We expect to make a thorough

test of the territory in the area we have leased," the spokesman stated.

He also indicated that the company was not disappointed with the formation encountered here, but did not say whether the first well was a dry hole, or one that might later be developed.

However, indications are that at no time during the drilling did the drill strike oil or gas in paying quantities, if at all.

It is known that some exceptional formations were encountered in the first test well, which was started May 12, but just what the formations were was not made public.

THE FACT that Kewanee has announced thorough tests will be made here indicates that a series of wells will be drilled in Fayette and adjacent counties, where the company has some 425,000 acres under lease.

It will take several days to complete the work at the present well and move the drilling rig to the new location.

It is understood that certain legal steps are necessary before the next well is started.

There have been rumors that if the first well proved to be a dry hole, further drilling would be abandoned here, but these faded with the definite announcement that the test of the region will be a thorough one.

DECISION ON GIRARD NEAR

Ike Said OKing Amendment to Civil Rights Bill

Dixie Leader Chats With President, Sees Compromises Probable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that Eisenhower's "mind is not closed to amendments which would clarify" the administration's civil rights bill.

Russell, quarterbacking Southern forces opposed to the legislation in the Senate, told newsmen Eisenhower is against enactment of any "punitive" measure.

Eisenhower and Russell talked over the bill for about 50 minutes at the White House.

In advance of Russell's conference with Eisenhower there were hints at the Senate that sponsors of the administration measure probably will compromise.

Eisenhower, himself has described the civil rights measure as "moderate," but said last week there were certain phrases he found hard to understand.

The current fight in the Senate, short of a full-scale filibuster so far, is over a motion to bring the bill itself up for floor action.

AMONG OTHERS, Vice President Nixon was reported to feel the language sponsored by the administration and approved by the House may be too stringent. This view apparently was shared by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader.

Knowland said that after the measure is officially before the Senate he will be open to suggestions for possible changes.

This seemed to reflect the growth of opposition among some Republicans to ramming through a measure their Dixie colleagues have said would confer "sweeping powers" on the attorney general to intervene in almost any civil rights controversy.

Sen. Young (R-ND) announced at a Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting Tuesday he would not vote to limit debate on the bill. Sen. Williams (R-De) said he is undecided. On the Democratic side, Sen. Bible of Nevada said he is inclined now to vote against limiting debate.

Unless Southern opponents talk themselves into exhaustion in the meantime, the measure can't be brought to a final vote unless 64 senators support limitation.

Russell, who has charged that the bill would authorize "bayonet rule" to enforce school integration and desegregation in public places in the South, challenged a ruling by Nixon Tuesday that the Senate is discussing the correct version of the House-passed measure.

Russell first made a point of order and announced he would seek a rollcall vote against Nixon's ruling. But on second thought, he said he would not press the matter. He said he knew the "Knowland-Douglas axis" had the votes to "rewrite" the Senate rules he said were being circumvented by the ruling.

Interstate Compacts On Juveniles Get OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved and sent to the House a bill authorizing Ohio and 22 other states to enter into compacts aimed at curbing juvenile delinquency. The compacts would deal with such subjects as supervision of juveniles from out of state, return of runaways and establishment of mental and other institutions to serve juveniles of more than one state.

But if these men are simply assigned to political oblivion, the tendency to send to the House a bill authorizing Ohio and 22 other states to enter into compacts aimed at curbing juvenile delinquency. Help in Sight for Ohio's Overcrowded Institutions

COLUMBUS (AP)—Help is in sight for many of Ohio's overcrowded penal institutions and mental hospitals.

Annex replacement at Cincinnati's Longview State Hospital heads the list of projects that the Department of Mental Health and Correction will place under contract shortly.

Public Works Director Zoyd M. Flaker listed the $3,213,960 project among those totaling $7,057,470 for which bids have been received.

Gov. C. William O'Neill said another $7,448,940 worth of construction is under way and that bids will be received during the last half of 1957 for additional projects costing $18,361,000.

The governor described the program as the state's largest and said:

"It will make hundreds of new beds available for the mentally ill and give some relief to overcrowded institutions."

He said plans call for additional contracts to boost the total to $47 million "within a year."

O'Neill today announced the appointment of John Hermanies of Cincinnati to help expedite mental hospital construction.

Hermanies, a former assistant attorney general, has been an expeditor in the state highway department. He will serve under Chalmers P. Wylie, the governor's executive secretary at $12,000 a year.

Other major projects to be placed under contract shortly:

100-bed addition to the receiving hospital and therapy unit at Toledo State Hospital.

120-bed reception and intensive therapy unit, Tiffin State Hospital.

100-bed medical and surgical building, Gallipolis State Institute.

Centralized food preparation and service unit, Columbus State School.

Security cottage and vocational building Boys' Industrial School, Lancaster.

100-bed "B" type patient building, Apple Creek State Hospital.

Major projects for which bids will be received this year include:

Working plans for new medium security institution at Lebanon for a southern Ohio reformatory.

150-bed central reception and classification center addition to the Juvenile Diagnostic Center.

100-bed psychiatric treatment institution for delinquent children.

Hawthornes State Hospital, 200-bed patient building.

Children's psychiatric unit, Dayton State Hospital.

Cleveland State Hospital, 100-bed medical and surgical building.

Additional floors at Cleveland Receiving Hospital.

Help for Crippled Children

Mrs. Sarah C. DeWitt, who was brutally beaten to death with a hatchet in her home on the CCC Highway near E. 10th July 2, left practically all of her estate estimated at $38,000 to pay medical and hospital expenses of crippled children.

The Fayette County Hospital was made trustee to handle the funds for payment of doctor bills and hospital bills of infantile paralysis victims and other crippled children, whose parents are unable to take care of the expenses.

The fact that her son, Dwight, who died in 1936, was crippled, is believed to have motivated her generous provision to help crippled children.

Her original will was dated Dec. 7, 1946. It was witnessed by N. P. Clyburn and Ethel Clyburn, both of whom are dead.

TWO CODICILS to the original will were dated in 1949. One changed a personal bequest following the death of the one to whom the bequest was made; the other named William Lovell executor to take the place of N. P. Clyburn, deceased.

The will, probated Tuesday, leaves $100 to the Fayette County Red Cross Chapter; $200 to the Methodist Church of Madison Mills; $200 to Della Mahan; $500 to trustees of the Washington C. H. Cemetery for keeping up the family lot and providing flowers; and the remainder of the estate to the care of crippled children.

The will authorizes the executor to sell her personal property (she had disposed of her real estate last fall) to pay funeral expenses and all just debts.

GEORGE PENNYL, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said he was certain the people of this community are "deeply grateful" to Mrs. DeWitt.

He added the board undoubtedly will discuss the will and its provisions at its next meeting and commented that an attorney might be consulted to determine whether the money left to pay hospital and doctor bills for needed crippled children could be invested and the income used for the purposes set forth by Mrs. DeWitt.

"It was a fine thing for her to do and I'm sure the trustees will want to do everything to comply with her wishes," Penny declared.

Man Hears 'Burglar,' Fires. Kills Son, 10

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 10-year-old Nashville boy who got out of bed Tuesday night to play with his two pet puppies was shot and killed by his father, who mistook the child for a burglar.

Special Investigator John Cole said John Carl Smith, 34, was awakened by a noise outside the front door and shot twice at a moving form. It was his son, John.

This was the third such meeting since the boycott was launched two weeks ago in protest to a legislative act reducing the Tuskegee city limits so as to remove 410 out of 420 Negro voters from city rolls.

School Clerk Bond Ruling Is Detailed

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has ruled that board of education clerks and business managers of city school districts must furnish bonds in an amount approved by their boards.

Saxbe also ruled that a school bus driver must furnish bond regardless of whether he is employed directly by a board or by one who has contracted with the board to supply bus drivers. The board may not waive the bond he added in the opinion sought by State Auditor James Rhodes.

Supreme Court Readies Report In GI Dispute

Justices Pondering Whether Japanese May Try Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court appeared likely today to issue an early decision in the case of GI William S. Girard.

The court itself did not rule sometime today. Neither did it indicate just when it might be announced.

The eight justices listened to four hours of legal arguments Monday, then considered the case for 4 hours and 46 minutes Tuesday.

Afterward, the clerk's office told newsmen there would be "no announcement of any kind tonight." A court spokesman added that he could give no information as to when there might be one.

The question the court must decide is whether U. S. authorities may lawfully turn Girard, 21, an Army specialist third class, over to Japan for trial in its courts in connection with the death of a Japanese woman fatally wounded while gathering scrap on an army firing range last Jan. 30.

JAPAN CHARGES that Girard shot her in the back with an empty cartridge casing fired from the grenade launcher of his rifle. Girard was on guard duty at the time.

Girard contends the death was an accident, and denies allegations that he enticed the woman within range before firing.

Federal Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy ruled earlier that the attempt by U. S. authorities to let the Japanese try Girard would violate his constitutional rights. The government appealed this ruling directly to the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the Bow resolution to end foreign trials of GIs "threatens the very security of the United States and the free world."

There were reports that Democratic chiefs who earlier had approved quick House consideration of the measure by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) are now calling for a slower approach. They originally wanted to get it out of the way so it wouldn't be attached as an amendment to the foreign aid bill. The resolution would order the President to seek revision of or denounce the status-of-forces agreements, so as to allow U. S. jurisdiction over all offenses committed by GIs overseas. Bow says a serviceman sent abroad should not be deprived of his constitutional rights.

UNDER THE status-of-forces agreements, countries in which U. S. troops are stationed are recognized as having authority to try them for some offenses, usually those committed off duty.

Martin's reference to a threat to security was based on the administration contention that denunciation of the status-of-forces agreements would cause other countries to end their agreements for the stationing of American troops on their soil.

The House Republican leader, who discussed the subject with President Eisenhower, described the chief executive as "strongly opposed" to the resolution.

There has been heavy congressional sentiment for the measure in the furor over the Girard case.

Trio Admits Guilt In Holdup Effort

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 23-year-old man and two teen-aged girls accused of participation in the robbery of a savings and loan firm which was filmed with a hidden camera have pleaded guilty to armed robbery charges here.

They threw themselves on the mercy of the court following a conference of more than two hours in which County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan agreed to drop the charge of malicious entry into a financial institution.

The defendants are Miss Wanda DiCenzi, 18; Miss Rose O'Donnell, 18; and Ray Thomas.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Twelve Ohio scientists have received research grants totaling $76,807 from the American Heart Assn. The grants are to be used in the field of heart and blood vessel diseases.

Building Money for Ohio's Needy Schools Still Moot

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's state Board of Education has postponed until next month any action on recommended policies setting steps for needy school districts to apply for state construction money.

But at its concluding session Tuesday, the board approved rules and regulations on payment of state funds to school districts to buy buses.

Board members said they had not had time to digest proposals by State Supt. E. E. Holt, which include an Oct. 1 deadline for filing applications this year. That deadline may have to be changed.

The proposals set a formula for determining the relative degree of overcrowding of satisfactory classrooms and spell out how priorities of school districts shall be determined.

The state director of school finance, Robert L. Rohe, told the board he is convinced the $367 million appropriated by the state legislature for the school foundation program will not be adequate. He said $373 million for the next two years would be more realistic.

Meanwhile, the board decided not to "open the gates" to requests for additional state help in constructing school buildings. It rejected a request to grant Wheelersburg, Scioto County, an additional $28,500 for unexpected building expenses. Ward Miller, who presented the Wheelersburg plea, voted for the allocation.

"This is not the first such request," the board was told by R. H. Eymann, an assistant education director. "If you open the gates, you will have many, many requests."

The board, however, authorized Holt to approve transfer of $28,500 from the $30,000 for fixed equipment such as desks for the school, should Wheelersburg want that.

Miller said he wanted the additional grant "to take Wheelersburg off the hook." He said builders unexpectedly found soil conditions that meant spending more money for foundations.

Wheelersburg has 1,300 students in accommodations for 650, and is operating double sessions.

Meanwhile, Eymann predicted that it will be spring of 1958 before fore Ohio school districts get building money from the state bond issue approved in 1955.

Eymann said it is certain that $10 million in bond money allotted by the legislature for schools in the next two years won't go around.

An expected report from Miller on Ohio's teacher training program also was postponed until August.

U. S. Appraisal On Purge Varies

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. experts on Russia were reported split today on their estimates of the amount of real power, now exercised by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev in the wake of the "Remlin shakeup."

So far they have come up with three estimates covering major possibilities:

1. Khrushchev is well along the way to becoming a virtual dictator. The system of collective rule which was installed upon Stalin's death for years ago is doomed.

2. Khrushchev is still the "first among equals" or the "chairman of the board" of a collective rule system. With his most formidable critics out of the way, however, he can now expect far more support and much less opposition.

3. Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov may be the real strong man. Zhukov represents the military power, and Khrushchev could not have continued as Communist party boss without his support.

These varied theories reflect a lack of hard information.

STATE DEPARTMENT officials have been deeply interested in reports from Communist sources, mainly in Eastern Europe, that Khrushchev's foes in the Presidium precipitated the crisis that resulted in their ouster. They were V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich, Georgi Malenkov and Dmitri Shepilov.

Khrushchev has a case of the four of trying to seize power. They have been denounced for wanting to return to Stalinism, which seems to suggest that they favored a reversion to dictatorship and that Khrushchev and Zhukov were against it.

U. S. officials say privately they are not at all certain what issue focused the dissension or even whether the policy questions were of vital importance in this crisis.

Personal ambitions on the part of some of the ousted men, particularly Malenkov and Shepilov, who are both relatively young men, may have provided the real motivations on their side.

Informants said that what the Khrushchev group now does with the men may indicate how he will develop his power, assuming he is the strong man. Harsh action would probably bring the conclusion that Khrushchev is building himself into a dictator by wiping out opposition.

Drilling at First Oil Well Is Halted; Second Planned

Drilling operations at the first test oil well sunk in Fayette County by the Kewanee Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., will be halted "within the next few days," but the rig set up May 12 on the Edwards Hopkins farm on the Creek Rd. will be moved to another location "within 4 or 5 miles of Washington C. H." in the near future.

This was disclosed Wednesday morning by telephone by a spokesman of the Kewanee Co. in Tulsa after crewmen at the Hopkins farm reported that the granite bedrock had been struck there at 4,706 feet Tuesday.

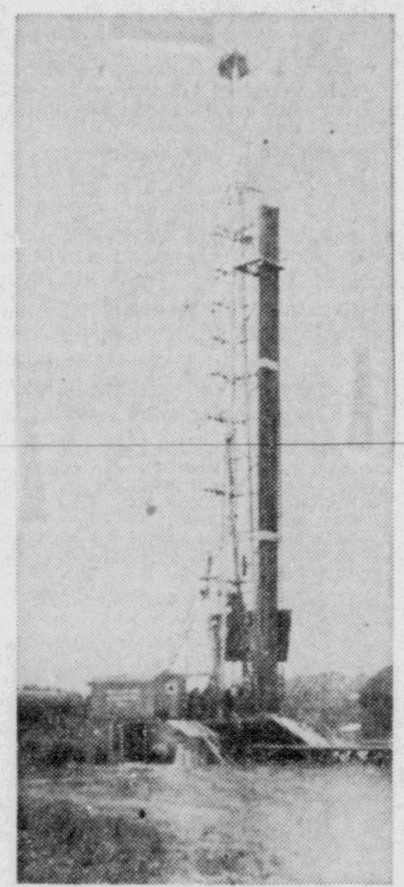

The spokesman, however, did not say whether oil had been found or disclose specifically where the next well will be drilled.

THE FACT that Kewanee has announced thorough tests will be made here indicates that a series of wells will be drilled in Fayette and adjacent counties, where the company has some 425,000 acres under lease.

It will take several days to complete the work at the present well and move the drilling rig to the new location.

It is understood that certain legal steps are necessary before the next well is started.

There have been rumors that if the first well proved to be a dry hole, further drilling would be abandoned here, but these faded with the definite announcement that the test of the region will be a thorough one.

U. S. Appraisal On Purge Varies

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. experts on Russia were reported split today on their estimates of the amount of real power now exercised by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev in the wake of the "Tremplin shakeup."

So far they have come up with three estimates covering major possibilities:

1. Khrushchev is well along the way to becoming a virtual dictator. The system of collective rule which was installed upon Stalin's death for years ago is doomed.

2. Khrushchev is still the "first among equals" or the "chairman of the board" of a collective rule system. With his most formidable critics out of the way, however, he can now expect far more support and much less opposition.

3. Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov may be the real strong man. Zhukov represents the military power, and Khrushchev could not have continued as Communist party boss without his support.

These varied theories reflect a lack of hard information.

Bulganin Seen Next Victim Of Red Purge

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev promised Czechoslovakia today that the split in the Communist bloc which "imperialist reaction attempted in Hungary will never happen."

The Soviet Communist party chief spoke to a huge crowd at the Prague railroad station formerly named for Woodrow Wilson after he and Premier Bulganin stepped from the special train which brought them on a 24-hour whistle-stop tour across Czechoslovakia.

Prague Radio said the Soviet leaders had come to the Czech capital for "discussions of great political significance," especially since these followed so closely upon the removal of Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov.

The New York Times said diplomatic reports indicate Bulganin also may be on the way out.

Harrison E. Salisbury, former Times bureau chief in Moscow, wrote that the reports indicate Bulganin and President Klementi Voroshilov deserted Khrushchev at a critical moment in the power struggle which ended in the ouster of Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov.

cially have been deeply interested in reports from Communist sources, mainly in Eastern Europe, that Khrushchev's foes in the Presidium precipitated the crisis that resulted in their ouster. They were V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich, Georgi Malenkov and Dmitri Shepilov.

Khrushchev has accused the four of trying to seize power. They have been denounced for wanting to return to Stalinism, which seems to suggest that they favored a reversion to dictatorship and that Khrushchev and Zhukov were against it.

U. S. officials say privately they are not at all certain what issue focused the dissension or even whether the policy questions were of vital importance in this crisis.

Personal ambitions on the part of some of the ousted men, particularly Malenkov and Shepilov, who are both relatively young men, may have provided the real motivations on their side.

Informants said that what the Khrushchev group now does with the men may indicate how he will develop his power, assuming he is the strong man. Harsh action would probably bring the conclusion that Khrushchev is building himself into a dictator by wiping out opposition.

But if these men are simply consigned to political oblivion, the tendency will be to think that the present Soviet leadership wants to continue to prove that it has really abandoned the ruthless ways of Stalin, that it wants collective leadership to work, and that while it cannot tolerate conspiracy in high places it has some tolerance for the conspirators as individuals.

KINGS CANYON NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—The life of a critically injured mountain climber depends today on the ability of a helicopter pilot to land and take off on rugged 14,000-foot Palisade Peak.

Ike Said OKing Amendment to Civil Rights Bill

Dixie Leader Chats With President, Sees Compromises Probable

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said after a conference with President Eisenhower today that Eisenhower's "mind is not closed to amendments which would clarify" the administration's civil rights bill.

Russell, quarterbacking Southern forces opposed to the legislation in the Senate, told newsmen Eisenhower is against enactment of any "punitive" measure.

Eisenhower and Russell talked over the bill for about 50 minutes at the White House.

In advance of Russell's conference with Eisenhower there were hints at the Senate that sponsors of the administration measure probably will compromise.

Eisenhower, himself has described the civil rights measure as "moderate," but said last week there were certain phrases he found hard to understand.

The current fight in the Senate, short of a full-scale filibuster so far, is over a motion to bring the bill itself up for floor action.

AMONG OTHERS, Vice President Nixon was reported to feel the language sponsored by the administration and approved by the House may be too stringent. This view apparently was shared by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader.

Knowland said that after the measure is officially before the Senate he will be open to suggestions for possible changes.

This seemed to reflect the growth of opposition among some Republicans to ramming through a measure their Dixie colleagues have said would confer "sweeping powers" on the attorney general to intervene in almost any civil rights controversy.

Sen. Young (R-ND) announced at a Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting Tuesday he would not vote to limit debate on the bill. Sen. Williams (R-Ind.) said he is undecided. On the Democratic side, Sen. Bible of Nevada said he is inclined now to vote against limiting debate.

Unless Southern opponents talk themselves into exhaustion in the meantime, the measure can't be brought to a final vote unless 64 senators support limitation.

Russell, who has charged that the bill would authorize "bayonet rule" to enforce school integration and desegregation in public places in the South, challenged a ruling by Nixon Tuesday that the Senate is discussing the correct version of the House-passed measure.

Russell first made a point of order and announced he would seek a rollcall vote against Nixon's ruling. But on second thought, he said he would not press the matter. He said he knew the "Knowland-Douglas axis" had the votes to "rewrite" the Senate rules he said were being circumvented by the ruling.

Interstate Compacts On Juveniles Get OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved and sent to the House a bill authorizing Ohio and 22 other states to enter into compacts aimed at curbing juvenile delinquency. The compacts would deal with such subjects as supervision of juveniles from out of state, return of runaways and establishment of mental and other institutions to serve juveniles of more than one state.

Help in Sight for Ohio's Overcrowded Institutions

COLUMBUS (AP)—Help is in sight for many of Ohio's overcrowded penal institutions and mental hospitals.

Annex replacement at Cincinnati's Longview State Hospital heads the list of projects that the Department of Mental Health and Correction will place under contract shortly.

Public Works Director Zoyd M. Flaler listed the $3,213,960 project among those totaling $7,057,470 for which bids have been received.

Gov. C. William O'Neill said another $7,448,940 worth of construction is under way and that bids will be received during the last half of 1957 for additional projects costing $18,361,000.

The governor described the program as the state's largest and said:

"It will make hundreds of new beds available for the mentally ill and give some relief to overcrowded institutions."

He said plans call for additional contracts to boost the total to $47 million "within a year."

O'Neill today announced the appointment of John Hermanies of Cincinnati to help expedite mental hospital construction.

Hermanies, a former assistant attorney general, has been an expediter in the state highway department. He will serve under Chalmers P. Wylie, the governor's executive secretary at $12,000 a year.

Other major projects to be placed under contract shortly: 100-bed addition to the receiving hospital and therapy unit at Toledo State Hospital.

120-bed reception and intensive

therapy unit, Tiffin State Hospital.

100-bed medical and surgical building, Gallipolis State Institute. Centralized food preparation and service unit, Columbus State School.

Security cottage and vocational building Boys' Industrial School, Lancaster.

100-bed "B" type patient building, Apple Creek State Hospital.

Major projects for which bids will be received this year include: Working plans for new medium security institution at Lebanon for a southern Ohio reformatory.

150-bed central reception and classification center addition to the Juvenile Diagnostic Center.

100-bed psychiatric treatment institution for delinquent children.

Hawthornden State Hospital, 200-bed patient building.

Children's psychiatric unit, Dayton State Hospital.

Cleveland State Hospital, 100-bed medical and surgical building.

Additional floors at Cleveland Receiving Hospital.

Mrs. Sarah C. DeWitt, who was brutally beaten to death with a hatchet in her home on the CCC Highway near E. 12th July 2, left practically all of her estate estimated at $38,000 to pay medical and hospital expenses of crippled children.

The Fayette County Hospital was made trustee to handle the funds for payment of doctor bills and hospital bills of infantile paralysis victims and other crippled children, whose parents are unable to take care of the expenses.

The fact that her son, Dwight, who died in 1936, was crippled, is believed to have motivated her generous provision to help crippled children.

Her original will was dated Dec. 7, 1946. It was witnessed by N. P. Clyburn and Ethel Clyburn, both of whom are dead.

TWO CODICILS to the original will were dated in 1949. One changed a personal bequest following the death of the one to whom the bequest was made; the other named William Lovell executor to take the place of N. P. Clyburn, deceased.

The will, probated Tuesday, leaves $100 to the Fayette County Red Cross Chapter; $200 to the Methodist Church of Madison Mills; $200 to Della Mahan; $500 to trustees of the Washington C. H. Cemetery for keeping up the family lot and providing flowers; and the remainder of the estate to the care of crippled children.

The will authorizes the executor to sell her personal property (she had disposed of her real estate last fall) to pay funeral expenses and all just debts.

GEORGE PENSYL, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said he was certain the people of this community are "deeply grateful" to Mrs. DeWitt.

He added the board undoubtedly will discuss the will and its provisions at its next meeting and commented that an attorney might be consulted to determine whether the money left to pay hospital and doctor bills for needed crippled children could be invested and the income used for the purposes set forth by Mrs. DeWitt.

"It was a fine thing for her to do and I'm sure the trustees will want to do everything to comply with her wishes," Pensyl declared.

Man Hears 'Burglar,' Fires. Kills Son, 10

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 10-year-old Nashville boy who got out of bed Tuesday night to play with his two pet puppies was shot and killed by his father, who mistook the child for a burglar.

tempt, was considered good enough to operate at the 14,000-foot area, although it is "a critical altitude."

Davidson made several exploratory passes over the area Tuesday and dropped supplies and medicine. He reported it would be difficult to find a "safe" place to land.

If the helicopter can't land, Dr. Jakes said, there would be no alternative except to start out with Scott on a stretcher. That trip would take four days.

Supreme Court Readies Report In GI Dispute

Justices Pondering Whether Japanese May Try Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court appeared likely today to issue an early decision in the case of GI William S. Girard.

The court itself did not rule sometime today. Neither did it indicate just when it might be announced.

The eight justices listened to four hours of legal arguments Monday, then considered the case for 4 hours and 46 minutes Tuesday.

Afterward, the clerk's office told newsmen there would be "no announcement of any kind tonight." A court spokesman added that he could give no information as to when there might be one.

The question the court must decide is whether U. S. authorities may lawfully turn Girard, 21, an Army specialist third class, over to Japan for trial in its courts in connection with the death of a Japanese woman fatally wounded while gathering scrap on an army firing range last Jan. 30.

JAPAN CHARGES that Girard shot her in the back with an empty cartridge casing fired from the grenade launcher of his rifle. Girard was on guard duty at the time.

Girard contends the death was an accident, and denies allegations that he enticed the woman within range before firing.

Federal Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGraghy ruled earlier that the attempt by U. S. authorities to let the Japanese try Girard would violate his constitutional rights. The government appealed this ruling directly to the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the Bow resolution to end foreign trials of GIs "threatens the very security of the United States and the free world."

There were reports that Democratic chiefs who earlier had approved quick House consideration of the measure by Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) are now calling for a slower approach. They originally wanted to get it out of the way so it wouldn't be attached as an amendment to the foreign aid bill.

The resolution would order the President to seek revision of or denounce the status-of forces agreements, so as to allow U. S. jurisdiction over all offenses committed by GIs overseas. Bow says a serviceman sent abroad should not be deprived of his constitutional rights.

UNDER THE status-of forces agreements, countries in which U. S. troops are stationed are recognized as having authority to try them for some offenses, usually those committed off duty.

Martin's reference to a threat to security was based on the administration contention that denunciation of the status-of forces agreements would cause other countries to end their agreements for the stationing of American troops on their soil.

The House Republican leader, who discussed the subject with President Eisenhower, described the chief executive as "strongly opposed" to the resolution.

There has been heavy congressional sentiment for the measure in the furor over the Girard case.

Trio Admits Guilt In Holdup Effort

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 23-year-old man and two teen-aged girls accused of participation in the robbery of a savings and loan firm which was filmed with a hidden camera have pleaded guilty to armed robbery charges here.

They threw themselves on the mercy of the court following a conference of more than two hours in which County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan agreed to drop the charge of malicious entry into a financial institution.

The defendants are Miss Wanda DiCenzi, 18; Miss Rose O'Donnell, 18; and Ray Thomas.

Story of Navy Power Told to Rotary Club

In what Rotarians described as one of the best club programs of the year, Lieut. Com. James O. Gundrum, office in charge of U. S. Navy recruiting in the Columbus district of 47 counties in central Ohio, told many interesting things about "Sea Power and the Increasing Importance of the U. S. Navy," at the club's Tuesday luncheon meeting at the Country Club.

LT. COM. JAMES O. GUNDRUM

Philip G. Lee, chief machinist mate in the USN, now Lieut. Com. James O. Gundrum in charge of the navy recruiting station in Washington C. H., was also present. He assisted the July program committee in obtaining Lieut. Com. Gundrum for this meeting. Eli Craig of the committee made this announcement in his introductions.

Aided by a series of stereopticon pictures, said to have been used as a part of the presentation of needs in the Navy's appeal for more funds before recent hearings of the U. S. Senate and House appropriation committees, the speaker made it plain that the Navy is by no means obsolete, but is an absolute and vital power in this atomic age.

COM. GUNDRUM declared that never before in history had the free nations of the world looked to this nation for leadership as much as they are now doing during this period when atomic power has caused necessity for meeting new challenges.

He recounted at length factors in the U. S. Navy strength today and in its plans for the future, which he said make it impossible for the navy to be destroyed, or incapable of ruinous retaliation against any nation which attempts a warlike aggressive move.

He cited comparisons of the rapidly growing Russian naval strength and pointed out that the Soviet submarine potential has begun to appear as a serious threat to the security of U. S. and allied nations.

Com. Gundrum called attention to the Navy's plans in connection with launching missiles from any place on any sea in the world. He told of the importance of carrier weapon systems, fast carrier striking force and the study being given to mobility which he said is now more important in naval warfare than ever before.

BIG CHANGES are being made in U. S. nuclear powered submarine plans as well as the country's naval anti-submarine warfare preparedness, the speaker stated.

All our advances, he said, look first to ability to prevent war and then to unparalleled striking power in resistance and attack.

He declared that the United States is not self-sufficient in many vital raw materials, and said this need will quadruple in the next few years. This, he said, creates a definite "must" in maintenance of U. S. ocean and air lines of communication.

The naval officer's talk did not touch on matters of recruiting. Instead it gave a colorful picture of developments in the world which, he declared, made the progress of the U. S. Navy, along with other military forces of the nation, a matter of unsurpassed importance.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were: Dr. Felson, Roy Vandergriff and Arnold Hickman of Greenfield; Ralph Hicherson of Mt. Sterling and Dr. B. V. Scott of Chillicothe.

Other visitors were Charles Mustine with W. F. Himmelsbach, Wilbur Nungesser with Ralph Penn and the Rev. Donis Patterson with Robert Lisk.

Mrs. Dorothy Everhart was presented as the Rotary Club's new pianist by Robert Haigler, new club president in charge of his first meeting since assuming his new office.

Department of Taxation, division of sales and highway use taxes, at the same time it announced arrangements have been made for an examiner to be in the courthouse here on Wednesday, July 31, to assist vendors with their returns.

Because licenses are taken out by many for short periods and others go out of business, it was said it is impossible to tell just how many active vendors there are in Fayette County at any given time. However, it was estimated that there are between 1,500 and 1,600 licenses in effect now.

VENDORS seeking assistance from examiners must have with them all records necessary to substantiate the figures to be reported, such as a copy of their return for the previous period, a record of gross and exempt sales and a record of taxable sales of 41 cents or over for the period Jan. 1 to June 30, 1957.

Vendors also must bring copies of their purchase orders showing the amounts of stamps purchased during the first half of 1957.

Vendors are no longer required to have sales tax returns sworn to before a notary public or a representative of the Department of Taxation. The vendor, however, is required to sign the declaration on the return that the information given is true.

When completed, all returns must be filed with or mailed to the Treasurer of State, P. O. Box 1799, Columbus.

If a deficiency is shown on the vendor's return, remittance in the amount of tax due should accompany the return, made payable to the Treasurer of State, either by check, draft or money order.

Supreme Court Criticism Continues

Wide-spread comment is being heard regarding the large amount of critical publicity turned loose within the past few months regarding the attitude of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Open and under-cover criticism as to the unusual liberalism of this court, especially wherein it is declared to be taking some of the functions of Congress, is having some effect.

The high point in this attitude seems to spring originally from the Supreme Court's majority decisions relative to turning loose, or turning back for retrial, several convicted Communists for reasons which, to the public mind, appeared rather far-fetched.

Now Congress is beginning to take the "bit in its teeth" and is said to be preparing legislation designed to overcome the effects of some of the Supreme Court's recent decisions.

In one notable decision, the Jencks case, the high court held that an accused person is entitled to see the records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in dealing with the prosecution. It was declared that this would open the door to obtaining all kinds of information which the FBI has collected with reference to any accused person.

Congress may by law modify a Supreme Court decision as far as procedure may go, but of course it cannot overturn the basic principle involved. The court held that a defendant, under our system, is entitled to know all the charges against him and be able to question witnesses concerning statements made before the trial. A measure approved by a U. S. Senate subcommittee would permit the inspection of such reports only as the judge may determine are pertinent to the trial and would restrict the use of reports where the national security might be endangered.

Other proposals to counteract recent Supreme Court decisions are likely to be made. The court's rulings in the last few weeks of the term have aroused animosity in many quarters. Coming on top of the earlier segregation rulings, many have felt the court has moved too far to the left.

The proposal to require Supreme Court Justices to be reconfirmed by the Senate every four years is the least defensible of all the many suggestions for curbing the power of the court. Such a system, which would require constitutional amendment, would strike at the very basis of our government of separate legislative, executive and judicial powers.

The current situation recalls the attempt by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to increase the size of the Supreme Court in the late 1930s, after a series of decisions by the then conservative majority against New Deal legislation. The court-packing attempt failed for the same reason that the reconfirmation proposal probably would fail. The complete independence of the Supreme Court must be preserved as a necessary bulwark of our liberties.

Testimony in Stone of Faith

By Hal Boyle

ALCOA, Tenn. (AP) — William Andrew Nicholson is an 80-year-old carpenter who built an everlasting home because he confidently expects to live forever.

It is a fortress-like stone dwelling of 14 rooms and was hand-built by Nicholson and his wife over an eight-year period. It is known locally as "Millennium Manor" and "The House that Faith Built."

"It cannot rust or rot," said Nicholson, whose keen blue eyes and white hair make him look like a patriarch in a striped sport shirt, "and if nothing wrecks it there is no reason why it shouldn't last a million years."

And Nicholson himself is serenely certain that a million years from now he will be happy, alive and content with his house.

His reason is simple. He loves Jesus Christ, and he accepts as a statement of literal fact that Biblical promise that whoever loves Christ will have everlasting life.

"I believe in the Bible, and I believe in life," he said. "I believe in preparing to live instead of preparing to die."

So it was that in 1938 the kindly carpenter and his wife, who had borne him 10 children, began at the age of 61 to build an eternal shelter for an eternal life on earth.

There was to go into it nothing that could corrode or decay—neither wood nor nail. Only cement, rock and Tennessee pink marble.

Nicholson worked eight hours a day at his trade, then worked six to eight hours more on his home. He pushed 300-pound marble stones to their place in a wheelbarrow. His wife poured the mortar. The job took them eight long, exhausting years.

The house, completed in December, 1946, is two stories tall. Its outside walls are from two to three feet thick, its ceiling three to five feet. It has two bathrooms furnished with huge stone and cement chairs. The roof alone contains 432 tons of rock.

Six years ago Mrs. Nicholson died of cancer, leaving her husband lonely but still sure he himself will enjoy eternal life.

"It was hard to be parted from her after so many years," he said. "My wife believed in me, but her faith in eternal life was weak. She tried to believe, but she had her doubts. There came times when she talked of dying."

Nicholson's unusual home has become something of a tourist attraction. He says he has been offered $150,000 for it, but has no intention of selling.

"What would I want with the money?" he asked. "I have everything I need."

"I haven't been sick for 40 years. I don't worry about the atomic bomb or anything else. I let nothing bother me. I keep healthy by serving God the best I know how. I don't go to church. I used to belong to a church, but got out. They didn't like my views."

One of Nicholson's views that have led some of his neighbors to regard him as eccentric is his conviction that the world will be destroyed soon (probably by 1959), but that 144,000 righteous, including himself, will be saved.

However long he lives himself, the rugged, picturesque home he built stands as a temple of love, a poor man's pyramid, the testimony in stone of a mighty faith that stirred a simple heart to a dream of timeless grandeur.

Discipline Can't Be By-passed

By George Sokolsky

Elementary and high school education used to be strictly local until it became complicated by state board and college board examinations which inevitably forced schools to a greater degree of conformity or their students would flunk out.

Examinations became uniform. An increasing number of American parents sent their children to private, independent and parochial schools which meant double charges, as these parents paid their school taxes and also had the additional cost of educating their children according to their own conceptions.

Meanwhile, despite all the fancy ideas of psychiatrists, psychologists and behaviorists about what will frustrate a child and what will produce social consciousness, juvenile delinquency, in all possible forms, including felonies has increased to a danger point.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, has, year after year, called attention to the increase of crime by children 18 and under. The conclusion can only be reached that certainly the school and the home and probably the church have failed to meet the major national problem of the child.

Such a conclusion is forced upon one by the horrible murders, the lack of respect, the egotistic conduct of so many children these days, who call themselves teenagers and regard such a classification as an excuse for impromptu.

An old-fashioned spanking seems often to be in order. It used to produce excellent results, and even if it hurt the parent more than the child, it did help the child learn that manners were the external expression of morals and that hoodlums were not tolerated in good company.

So far as children are concerned, the broken home seems to be as much a cause for disturbance as the badly organized school. The broken home too often results in a competition among parents, stepparents, near relatives and others for the good will, if not the love of the child. The smart child quickly becomes a blackmailer and wisely so, because the child can get away with anything under such circumstances.

Thus, many children are corrupted by their own parents who fail to recognize that just as a horse must be trained or a dog housebroken and a vine pruned, so a child must be taught table manners, and to say, "thank-you," and to listen when spoken to because none of these things come naturally.

We are all savages, naturally. And so many of our youngsters show what can happen when there is no training.

The broken home requires particular parental attention because the child knows that spending six months with two parents and six months with two other parents, or having a set of parents most of the year and another father on rare occasions, or being brought up by grandparents while mother is married to Mr. Brown and father is married to somebody called Imogene—these complications, and one can increase them geometrically, do the child no particular good unless one parent is able to establish a constructive influence.

No parent has ever been able to build a child's character by the easy route of cash bribes or gifts. What the child craves is love and attention, not money and presents. And love does not mean for a child what so many parents think it does. It does not mean only occasional fondling.

To the intelligent child, it most often means teaching the child how to get along with other children, but to act so that it is invited to parties. A child soon knows when it is left out and why.

The youngsters make that clear. They can be very harsh about such things—much harsher than their parents. Also children become stubborn under such circumstances. They build up an "I'll show them" attitude, which can lead to catastrophe.

A youngster who is asked to leave three or four schools knows why. The parent may not understand, but the child does. And in each new school that child, by a community-of-kind response, quickly joins other disturbers of the peace and order.

The parent says: "I have been so good. I have given that child everything." But that parent has not given that child everything.

Omitted both at home and at school has been loving discipline, a firm insistence upon propriety; manners, particularly table manners, and a due regard for the rights of others, including elders.

These cannot be safely by-passed. (Copyright 1955 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Best Way To Relax Is To Bask In Sun

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SUN bathing is not merely a method of getting an attractive tan, nor should it be confined exclusively to the female sex.

I would like to suggest that many of you businessmen—especially you ambitious young executives—take plenty of time this summer for sun bathing. You cannot remain keyed-up forever without having your health suffer from the strain.

Best Way To Relax

One of the best ways of relaxing I know is simply to lie in the sun. Don't overdo it, of course. I think you will find the sun's warm rays very soothing and restful. Even your brain will become somewhat relaxed if you let it.

You don't have to go to the seashore or the lake to take advantage of this refreshing sunshine. The backyard will do quite well. A millionaire aboard a luxury yacht can't get more advantage from the sun than you can right outside your home.

Close Your Eyes

You can read while sun bathing, if you want to, or you can simply close your eyes and do exactly nothing. Perhaps this is best.

You will spoil the whole idea, though, if you take your problems and worries along. If you plan to read, make sure it is for pleasure. Do not plan to relax in the sun with business papers. It is virtually impossible.

The quieter your surroundings, the better. You will not be able to relax much if the kids are whirling about you and yelling at each other.

However, even if everything is just as I have suggested, there is still one problem you might encounter in your sun bathing. That, of course, is the matter of sunburn. I can help you there, too. More about this later.

New Philly Man Determined To Fight City over 'Lake'

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)

—A flooded intersection in this Tuscarawas County city has Erle D. Bloom "fired up" and ready to battle city officials to the bitter end.

Tabbed "Bloom Lake" because it parallels his property, the flooded intersection has resulted in the Ohio Department of Health notifying the city to take immediate steps to correct the health hazard.

The controversy over the flooded intersection was touched off April 30 when Bloom, a fan inspector, erected a sign in the intersection corner of his yard.

It read: "Inquire within for one year lease to dry dock your boat."

Police, the next day, called on Bloom and told him to remove the sign because it violated a city ordinance. Bloom was threatened with a $500 fine for each day it remained. It's still there. So is the lake, which was "refilled" after a recent rainfall of 12 inches.

Bloom says there have been only three times in the last year that the intersection hasn't been wet or filled with water. It isn't unusual for the lake to measure 18 inches deep and extend 160 feet on Emmet avenue and 80 feet on Union avenue, which bound two sides of the Bloom property.

Sometimes, the lake overflows the curb and backs up into Bloom's yard, which is below street level. Sewage waste also has been known to back up into Bloom's basement, he says.

Bloom says last winter the lake became a skating pond and a real traffic hazard. The city sent a large road scraper to push the ice aside.

The lake began to develop six years ago when a softball team raised the outfield of its diamond because water from the intersection was draining onto it. The city tried to tile-drain the intersection without results.

Officials contend the area can't be linked to a storm sewer two blocks away because of the lay of the land.

And Bloom, who has attended most City Council meetings in an effort to have the hazard removed, is determined he's entitled to complete relief.

"I'm sure anyone in my boat would feel the same way," he said. "My patience has been worn thin."

In the general election in Denmark in 1857, the Communists polled only 72,312 votes opposed to a vote cast of 2,135,545 for all opposition parties.

Officials contend the area cannot be linked to a storm sewer two blocks away because of the lay of the land.

And Bloom, who has attended most City Council meetings in an effort to have the hazard removed, is determined he's entitled to complete relief.

"I'm sure anyone in my boat would feel the same way," he said. "My patience has been worn thin."

In the general election in Denmark in 1857, the Communists polled only 72,312 votes opposed to a vote cast of 2,13,545 for all opposition parties.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Fayette County was the first county in which experimental hog cholera eradication methods were tried out on a county-wide basis by the state. As a result of the work here, it was the real beginning in stamping out a disease which ran up to $50,000,000 a year in swine losses throughout the United States.

The work started here March 9, 1914, and continued until in July, 1915, when it was abandoned, presumably because of lack of funds to continue it. The state had appropriated $20,000 and to have done the job right, five times that amount probably would have been required.

Dr. H. A. Salt, chief assistant to State Veterinarian Paul Fischer, was in active charge of the work here. He had some difficulty in obtaining full co-operation of some of the farmers, who objected to the county-wide quarantine and the necessity of having a permit to sell and ship hogs.

In fact, during the latter part of the work here petitions were started demanding that the quarantine be lifted and the work discontinued in the county.

There were still several infected herds in the county when the quarantine was lifted and the work came to an abrupt end here. Whether the opposition to the work caused the sudden cessation, or whether all funds for the work had been exhausted, is not known. However, it is believed further funds could have been obtained for the work if the officials cared to continue it.

It was found during the more than a year of eradication work that approximately 500 farms out of 1800 in the county were infected with cholera.

Immunization was carried out on most farms, with highly satisfactory results. Following the county-wide eradication work here, and the realization that the disease could be prevented and controlled by proper immunization, veterinarians and farmers generally cooperated in keeping the disease in check here and elsewhere.

Not since the eradication work carried out here as an experiment have swine losses been anything like as heavy as they were prior to the experiment. It might well be said that the work here was highly successful and has meant saving Fayette County farmers hundreds of thousands of dollars, as well as saving tens of millions for farmers in the hog belt generally.

More sanitary condition for swine also have done much toward preventing the swine plague, although immunization ranks first as the greatest preventive.

CUTTING MUCH TIMBER

Cutting much immature timber for lumber is proceeding in many areas of the hill counties. Recently on a drive to Sinking Spring, east to Piketon, and into Chillicothe we saw four sawmills which were converting much timber into lumber.

Considerable areas of timber were being denuded of all trees and in some instances entire hillsides were being shorn of all trees which would make any lumber worthwhile.

In some instances, pine trees were being cut and sawed, although most of them were rather small and made comparatively little lumber.

Some of the trees being cut were sizeable and made considerable lumber, but for the most part the big trees had been cut out and saved many years ago.

Some saplings and very small trees are being left in the areas where the timber is being removed. In time, if they are not molested, they will be lumber producing trees.

Little timber has been cut in Fayette County in recent years.

'Doctor Draft' Law Changed

Liability Same As for Others Now

Physicians and dentists, since July 1, are liable for military service under the Selective Service law the same as any other registrants now.

This was revealed today by Karl J. Kay, chairman of the Fayette County draft board, following receipt of an announcement from Col. Harold L. Hays, director of Selective Service for Ohio.

Col. Hays is a native of Washington C. H. and a graduate of the high school here.

Col. Hays' announcement said special liability for these professional groups, which has been in effect since 1950, is now at an end.

Under the former "Doctor Draft" act, physicians and dentists were liable for service at older ages than other registrants—at one time up to age 50. Under the new law, the upper limit of the age of liability for physicians and dentists is 35 for those deferred on or after June 19, 1951—the same provisions that apply to all men.

The new amendments to the basic draft act are expected to supply the military forces with their medical specialist needs. The amendments mean that no physician or dentist older than 32 at the time the amendments were adopted is liable for service under the draft law.

THE CHANGES also provide for selection of these professional men apart from other registrants; for ordering such specialists to active duty from the reserve; and prohibit the induction of physicians and dentists who apply or have applied for reserve commissions and have been rejected solely on the basis of physical disqualification.

Virtually all physicians and dentists who will complete their training over the next two years were, in the past, deferred for study and are liable to age 35, the military services estimate.

With the service liability extended by such deferments to age 35, practically all of these specialists are expected to apply for commissions in the armed forces reserve components and to perform periods of obligated active duty, following commissioning, as needed by the services.

But the authority to draft younger physicians and dentists is retained in the law in the event it is needed, the state director said.

In recent years over 70 per cent of all expenditures for private productive facilities in the U. S. have gone for equipment.

Indiana Railroader To Receive Medal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Railroad Medal of Honor will be presented today to Herman J. Schaefer of Evansville, Ind., for his heroic rescue of a small child from the path of a freight train March 29, 1954.

Owen Clarke, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will present the medal.

Schaefer is a switchman on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. The child he rescued was Timothy Robertson, 2½. Schaefer was riding the front platform of a freight locomotive in the Evansville yards when he saw the child standing close to the right rail. He succeeded in pushing Timothy clear of the wheels. The child escaped injury.

Glamor Designer's Goal: Every Woman a Cleopatra

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of five articles on the fall fashions now showing in New York.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Ceil Chapman, high priestess of all-out glamor, says every woman can be a Cleopatra this winter, and to prove it shows a dazzling collection of cocktail and evening gowns with calculated allure.

Ceil today showed her prize shocker—a black crepe cocktail sheath, cunningly fitted and draped, with long, tight sleeves and a neckline slashed to the waist, bordered in discreet jewels and laced, so that, as Ceil explained, "you can let your conscience be your guide." Laced up tight, the dress can be as demure as a Sunday school costume. With the laces loosened it can provide sensational exposure.

"This has its own build-in bra," explains Mrs. Chapman, "so you don't need to worry about a thing."

On the same theme is a companion piece, also in slithering black crepe, deftly draped, only this one is high in front, low in back, and cut out over the ribs.

Rockefeller Right In His Prediction

CLEVELAND (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Sr. was right. The flight to the suburbs has put an end to the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church.

Delegates to the Cleveland Baptist Assn. have voted to empower trustees to sell or lease the 30-year-old structure. It probably will be torn down so the land can be leased as a parking lot.

When the church was built at a cost of $14 million, the Rockefellers, senior and junior, contributed $250,000. But the senior Rockefeller advised against building downtown. He pointed out the population was migrating to the suburb.

Pauline Trigere also provided top fashion news today by bringing back high, crushed collars for the first time in a generation, and showing them on evening gowns of all things.

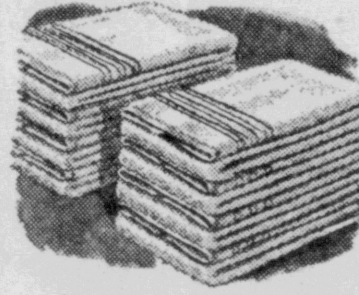

Trigere also shows tube-jacket suits, smooth and easy, the jackets almost tunic length, but relaxed and unfitted. One-piece dresses are in the "laissez faire" silhouette—with no waistline at all.

Room for Sullivan, Allen And Good Movie Seen on TV

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — This started out to be a piece about Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan, and it's going to be in a minute. First, however, I want to explain that I didn't catch much of their programs on NBC-TV and CBS-TV, respectively, Sunday evening.

I was over on ABC-TV watching Cary Grant and Victor McLaglen and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in a 1939 movie, "Gunga Din." That's a tremendous movie; you shouldn't miss it. In fact, I'd like to write a piece about it too, but there isn't much to say except that it's no art. It just has the jungle-jangle and bang-bang and hair breath-harry escapes that appeal to adolescent males of all ages.

To get back to the subject of Allen and Sullivan... It's six months since I've mentioned their audience rating war for a pretty good reason: A newspaperman in the Middle West wrote asking why all the fuss about a rating war when, in his country, they watch one program live and the other on kine at a different hour.

Since television rating wars never did excite me much, that was sufficient excuse for me to drop the subject. But on Sunday, while watching and listening to "Gunga Din" on one set I had the other set switching between Sullivan and Allen without the sound track on. Cutting my eyes to the silent set occasionally, I noticed something interesting.

Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan are two of the tireddest looking men I've seen in this hot summer. Both need long vacations. But reliable sources say that neither thinks he dares take a vacation for fear the other will capture the entire audience.

It's an unhappy state of affairs and it couldn't happen to two nicer guys. There have been many reports about their taking personal cracks at each other, but in talking with each of them at various times I've heard only pleasantries about the other.

While Allen is primarily a humorist and Sullivan a master of ceremonies, it's interesting that their "war" is not being fought on the basis of a comedy show vs. a variety show. Rather, Allen is competing for the audience largely on the ground rules laid down by Sullivan: Those of a program which presents a variety of guests.

The big problem, as Allen has hinted, is to obtain guests who appeal to the widest possible audience is conditioned to watch a variety show on Sunday evenings. There seems to be lots of room for two variety shows. There also is plenty of room for movies like "Gunga Din."

Inflation: What Is It: Evil or Good?

Editor's Note: Call it creeping inflation, or call it the high cost of living, or call it the shrinking purchasing power of the dollar—people say they don't like it. But some obviously do like one or another aspect of inflation. It depends on where you sit. In the following article, first in a series of three, Sam Dawson, Associated Press business analyst, tells what different people mean when they talk about inflation.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A young executive moved about by his company parlaying his original small house into increasingly larger ones—mounting house values let him sell at a profit and thus lay hands on bigger down payments. Inflation looks like a windfall for him—but his final mortgage is a lot higher, too.

A retired couple find they must scrimp to live—although their nestegg once promised ease, even luxury.

A widow finds her late husband's life insurance doesn't buy what he had thought it would.

A factory worker or an office worker finds his pay check pleasantly fatter than 10 years ago—and then is surprised and dismayed when his bills for the same goods and services climb out of sight.

All these are aspects of what goes by the name of inflation—more money around but its purchasing power dwindling.

Some felt better off under inflation. The market value of a home bought 10 years ago is way up, the dollar sales volume of many stores and factories are, too, the pay check of the steel worker is much more impressive today. They may believe that "a little inflation is a good thing."

Those who save for a rainy day, those who want to build new homes, factories or schools, fear that what we have now may grow into chronic inflation and become the big bad wolf of our age.

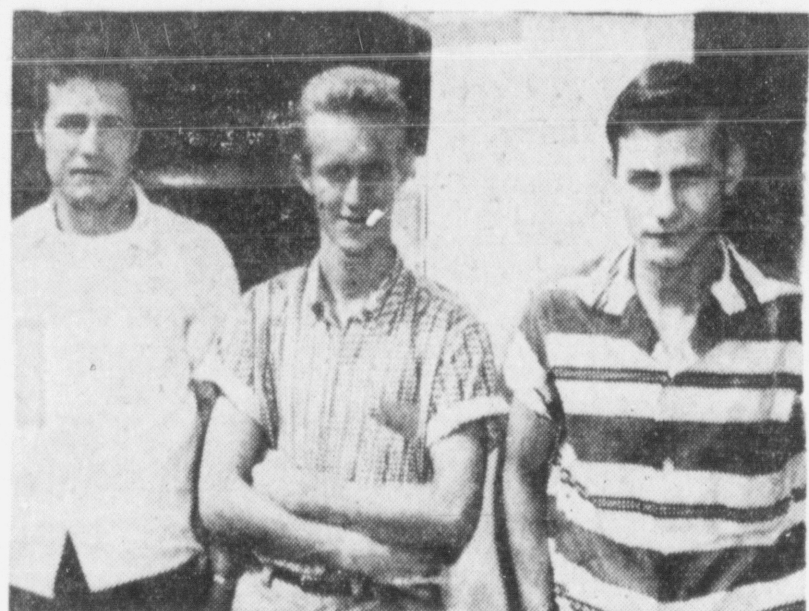

Economists and politicians are squabbling today over varying definitions of "inflation", and over whether what we are seeing today is really "inflation" at all or a wage-price spiral that is just one of the consequences of past inflation.

Here are some definitions of classic inflation, of hidden inflation, of creeping inflation, of wage-push, demand-pull, and profit-push inflation.

Classic inflation is the kind we had during World War II when new money and credit was created in great quantities to finance the defense effort, while output of consumer goods was cut sharply. It resulted in too much money chasing too few goods. To keep prices from rising sharply the government tried direct controls on wages and prices.

A variant on classic inflation comes when people lose faith in their currency and rush to change it into commodities, forcing the government to turn on the printing presses—as happened in Germany after World War I. Classic inflation is what governments often turn to when government spending is high and rising.

Hidden inflation is when prices

aren't changed but the quality or size of a product deteriorates—the five cent candy bar goes pygmy.

Creeping inflation is a term coined to describe what has been happening the last year or so—prices go up a nickel or a dime at a time first on one thing and then on another, so that the purchasing power of a dollar dwindles. In terms of purchasing power of the 1940, or "100-cent" dollar, the 1956 dollar bought only 50.5 cents worth and today's buys only 49.8 cents worth.

Wage-push inflation is what management calls the present situation where, it says, rising wage scales are pushing costs, and hence prices, always higher.

Profit-push inflation is what labor officials call the same situation. They say the urge to pile up record profits, rather than hold price lines, is the villain. Management seeks more profits to help finance still more plant building and equipment buying.

Demand-pull inflation is where supply would seem adequate except for unusual demand. This term is used today to describe what is happening to money.

The money managers point out that actually there is more money around and more credit and debt on the books than ever before in peace time. But the demand for goods, particularly capital goods, and for credit to finance their purchase is even greater—thus pushing interest rates up, and also the price of these capital goods, too.

Because money is being kept tight, the money managers say there is no "classic inflation" now. But the average man just knows that prices are going up and the dollar shrinking—by whatever name you call it.

Tomorrow: Various causes cited for today's inflation.

Jaycees Plan For '58 Fourth

Ideas Discussed
At Regular Meeting

The Washington C. H. Junior Chamber of Commerce already has started plans for staging a bigger and better Fourth of July Celebration next year.

Even before the Jaycees recuperated from their strenuous activities at the park in Sunday's postponed Independence Day celebration, they got together for dinner and a "brain storming" at Anderson's Restaurant.

The "brain storming"—going around the table for ideas—developed a list of 75 possible events and projects.

Using these as the foundation the Jaycees plan to screen and study them for the next few months before coming up with next year's expanded program.

A report on last Sunday's celebration was made at the meeting but just how the Jaycee came out financially was not disclosed.

Plans for the part the Jaycee will have in the Fair here the last week of July also were gone over. Another "brain storming" brought out some ideas, too.

THE JAYCEES decided they will have their "dunking machine" at the Fair again; this is the contraption which plunges volunteer Jaycees into a tank of water when the trap is sprung by hitting the trigger with a ball. It costs to throw the balls and that's where the Jaycees expect to get some cash for its treasury.

A plan to set up a "slave market," at which volunteer Jaycees would offer their services for a day or half-day to anyone who will pay for them, also was considered. The final decision was not made. The object: to make some money for Jaycee projects, such as the Fourth of July celebration.

The meeting came to an end with the showing of a motion picture on the oil industry.

He has turned to speech making as a full time occupation, he says, because he can meet people and win friends throughout the nation.

"I want to meet every living person in the United States, the personable 44-year-old Brown explains. "If you set your goal high enough, you may never reach it but you will have a lot of fun trying to get there."

Brown uses that as an illustration in his talks to show that if you want to do a thing, it is not impossible.

Demand for Brown as a speaker while serving two terms as lieutenant governor led him to the speaking platform full time. Bookings to address conventions and graduations, management and in-sales organizations already have taken him into a dozen states and dustrial groups, insurance and sales organizations already have taken him into a dozen states and Canada.

He will add Florida to the list next October when he addresses an Eastern Airlines meeting in Miami, and California early next year with an appearance at a retail hardware convention in San Francisco.

An aviation enthusiast, Brown flies to most of his engagements. He is a licensed pilot but no longer flies his own plane. He holds honorary titles of admiral of East Airlines, ambassador for Trans World Airlines and captain with Capital Airlines.

Whenever he can, Brown returns that night to his home in Medina after appearances. He served two terms as mayor of that Ohio city and operated appliance and real estate businesses there. Before that he was a state highway patrolman and served in

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exercition, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation...with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

the Coast Guard during World War II.

Brown's sideline is writing. He has two books in the mill. One is a volume on management and sales titled, "You can do it"; the other is a history of Ohio's gun makers. He collects muzzle loading rifles and Colt sidearms as a hobby.

Brown mixes humor and philosophy for his listeners. He says his speeches "contain enough meat to set them thinking."

An illustrated brochure describes Brown as "Ohio's most colorful speaker." The cover bears this slogan: "A smile or a tear, a laugh or a frown, the man from Ohio, John W. Brown."

Pictured inside is Brown shaking hands with President Eisenhower, chatting with Miss America, Annie Oakley and Gene Autry and posing with the late Harry Lauder, whom he met during the war.

Listed speaking topics include: "Today or Not Today," "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star," "Hither

Brown makes his speeches on a fee basis. He admits his income as toastmaster general isn't all it could be but it is enough for him and his wife Violet, for accustomed living.

He indicates his income exceeds the $6,000 a year he received as lieutenant governor but is less than the pay of governor.

Brown was paid at the rate of

Sandusky Causeway Paving Job Dropped

SANDUSKY (AP)—The Cedar Point Bridge Co. has withdrawn its petition to pay the proposed causeway drive which would connect U. S. 6 and Ohio 2 with Cedar Point, a finger of land pointing into Lake Erie.

The company gave no reason for its action. But it apparently was because the Sandusky City Commission had delayed authorization for the construction. Originally, the project was to have started last spring. Cost has been estimated at $234,800.

Inflation: What Is It: Evil or Good?

Editor's Note: Call it creeping inflation, or call it the high cost of living, or call it the shrinking purchasing power of the dollar—people say they don't like it. But some obviously do like one or another aspect of inflation. It depends on where you sit. In the following article, first in a series of three, Sam Dawson, Associated Press Business Analyst, tells what different people mean when they talk about inflation.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A young executive moved about by his company parlayed his original small house into increasingly larger ones—mounting house values let him sell at a profit and thus lay hands on bigger down payments. Inflation looks like a windfall for him—but his final mortgage is a lot higher, too.

A retired couple find they must scrimp to live — although their nestegg once promised ease, even luxury.

A widow finds her late husband's life insurance doesn't buy what he had thought it would.

A factory worker or an office worker finds his pay check pleasantly fatter than 10 years ago — and then is surprised and dismayed when his bills for the same goods and services climb out of sight.

All these are aspects of what goes by the name of inflation—more money around but its purchasing power dwindling.

Some felt better off under inflation. The market value of a home bought 10 years ago is way up, the dollar sales volume of many stores and factories are, too, the pay check of the steel worker is much more impressive today.

They may believe that "a little inflation is a good thing."

Those who save for a rainy day, those who want to build new homes, factories or schools, fear that what we have now may grow into chronic inflation and become the big bad wolf of our age.

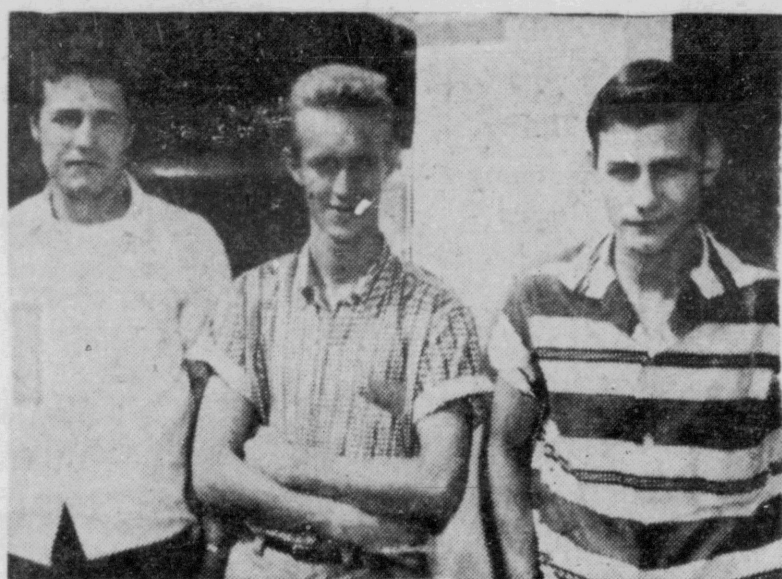

Economists and politicians are squabbling today over varying definitions of "inflation," and over whether we are seeing today's really "inflation" at all or a wage-price spiral that is just one of the consequences of past inflation.

Here are some definitions of classic inflation, of hidden inflation, of creeping inflation, of wage-push, demand-pull, and profit-push inflation.

Classic inflation is the kind we had during World War II when new money and credit was created in great quantities to finance the defense effort, while output of consumer goods was cut sharply. It resulted in too much money chasing too few goods. To keep prices from rising sharply the government tried direct controls on wages and prices.

A variant on classic inflation comes when people lose faith in their currency and rush to change it into commodities, forcing the government to turn on the printing presses—as happened in Germany after World War I. Classic inflation is what governments often turn to when government spending is high and rising.

Hidden inflation is when prices

aren't changed but the quality or size of a product deteriorates — the five cent candy bar goes pygmy.

Creeping inflation is a term coined to describe what has been happening the last year or so — prices go up a nickel or a dime at a time first on one thing and then on another, so that the purchasing power of a dollar dwindles. But the demand for goods, particularly capital goods, and for credit to finance their purchase is even greater—thus pushing interest rates up, and also the price of these capital goods, too.

Because money is being kept tight, the money managers say there is no "classic inflation" now. But the average man just knows that prices are going up and the dollar shrinking — by whatever name you call it.

Cincinnati Fires 68 To Lead Amateur

30-Year-Old Chalks
4-Under-Par Score To Face Ohio Tournament

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (U.P.)—The 51st Ohio Amateur golf championship went into its second qualifying round today with 185 contestants trying to catch Robert Davis, 30-year-old Cincinnati electrical equipment manufacturer, who manufactured a sub-par 68 in Tuesday's opening 18-hole round.

Davis fired five birdies and one bogie for a 34-34-68 over Springfield's Country Club's 6,545-yard, par-36-36-72 course to take a one-stroke lead for the medal honors.

With 66 of the 186 entrants firing scores of 78 or better for the opening 18-hole round, indications are that scores of 156 will be necessary to qualify for the 64 match-play spots.

A stroke behind Davis is Bud Anderson of Alliance, 37-year-old ex-caddy who reached the semi-finals in 1954. Anderson, who spent three years in the South Pacific during World War II as an infantry sergeant, is president of the Stark County Golf Assn.

Tied for third place with two-under-par 70s are Pandel Savic Columbus, former Ohio State quarterback, and 19-year-old Dave Samaritoni, ex-caddy from Sandusky.

Bob Shave Jr. of Cleveland, 21-year-old finalist last year, is all alone at 71 and tied at par-72 are Harry Wilson of Cleveland, Andy Santor of Youngstown, Joe Myers of the host club and Eddie Bohardt of Dayton, who placed the 18-man public links contingent.

The highly touted stars are close behind. Deadlocked at 73 are Francis Card of Columbus, the 1952 amateur champion; Bob Rankin of Zanesville, the winner in 1955; and Bob Ross of Springfield, the home town pride who won the 1955 and 1956 state Junior title.

In contention are Ed Preisler of Cleveland, 1946 Amateur champion and Jack Zimmermann of Dayton, two-time State Public Links titleholder and Amateur finalist in 1955 with 74s.

With scores of 156 for the two 18-hole rounds expected to qualify, some of the hotshots are on the ragged edge. Among them are Jackie Nicklaus 17-year-old Columbus Open champion, with 76, Hamilton Jedges, Columbus, winner of the recent state Pre-Seniors title, with 77, and Tom Jones of Youngstown, red # haired 1951 champion with 78.

Barney Hunt, former state Public Links champion from Columbus, had a 79; Larry Snyder of Athens, the 1957 Junior champion checked in with 82; and John Florio of Columbus, 1929 and 1932 state Amateur king, soared to an 88, which apparently put him out of the running.

The low 64 scorers after today's round go into match play Thursday in a pair of 18-hole round contests. The same program is on for Friday. Saturday's semifinals and Sunday's championship match will be over the 36-hole route.

Jets End Slump And Win 12-2

The Jets broke out of a slump at Wilson Field Tuesday night as they drubbed the Cubs, 12-2 in the second game of a Little League twin bill.

Mike Burris got the Jets back to their winning way with a 5-hitter while his teammates were pounding two Cub pitchers for a total of six hits and 12 runs.

Although no Jet was able to get more than one hit, six Cub errors, along with some clutch hits, were sufficient for their fallies.

Gary Kimball led the 5-hit attack by the Cubs with two hits off the left-handed slants of Burris.

In tonight's doubleheader at Wilson Field, the Realtors will meet the Cubs in the first game and the Cowboys will go against the Kernels in the second.

Legion Juniors Play Tie Game

The Washington C. H. Junior Legion nine and the Greenfield team played to a 1-1 tie at Bloomington Tuesday evening when the game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness.

Roger Shackelford, left hander, was the starting hurler for Washington C. H. Shackelford pitched four innings, striking out six, and walking only one. Billy Herman replaced him on the hill and worked three innings while striking out six, walking one and giving up the only Greenfield tally.

The Washington team showed improvement in the field but was still weak at the plate, getting only five safeties. Jim Smith continued to carry the hitting load with two for three. A lack of clutch hitting was again shown by the Washington C. H. nine as 10 runners were left on the bases.

The Junior Legion team, sponsored by the Pennington Bakery, will play its next game Sunday at Portsmouth, the second game of the tournament.

Wilmington Gets New High School Cage Pilot

WILMINGTON (U.P.)—Charles R. Schmidt, 1953 graduate of Wilmington College, is the new basketball coach at Wilmington High School. Basketball coach at Georgetown High School for the last two years, he succeeds James Midlam, who resigned to take a coaching job at P. E. A. S. A. N. T. P. School, Marion County.

Flashes Stage Rally To Nose Out Kernels

The Flashes scored two runs in the last inning Tuesday evening to defeat the Kernels 3-2 in the first game of a Little League double-header at Wilson Field.

The Kernels tallied twice in the first inning, but they were then shut-out for the remaining five frames.

The Flashes scored their winning runs on a double, error and sacrifice fly. Myon Lambert was safe in the last inning on a Kernel miscue and Billy Henderson followed with a double. With runners on second and third and none out, Billy Halliday sent a long fly to centerfielder Warner. Lambert scored easily from third after the catch and Henderson also tallied when Warner's throw got away from the catcher.

The Flashes' other tally came in the third when Ronnie Lindsey pelted a home run. Hurling for the Kernels was Harry O'Call who was tough enough to win most games. He stuck-out four and walked only one. Billy Henderson, the winning Flash pitcher, fanned out 11 and walked five.

The crowd of 30,693 witnessed splendid pitching by young Bunning, Baltimore's Billy Loes and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, and by Kaline and Mino. They also saw several plays that will be second-guessed for many weeks.

Why did National League Manager Walter Alton decide to let Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews swing away in the ninth inning? The potential tying runs were on second and first, and with nobody out, strategy cried for a bunt.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Gus Bell stop at second on Chicago Cub Ernie Banks' one-out run-scoring single in the ninth which cut the American's lead to 6-5? Bell tried to advance to third and was an easy out on Mino's throw to Boston's Frank Malzone.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who had opened the National's fifth with a single, run to second on Mathews' apparent line drive hit to right field? Instead, Robinson retreated after going halfway and was thrown out at second by Kaline, who made a one-handed stab of the ball on the first bounce.

Alton, who used all but four of his 25 players, defended his own action and that of his players in a forthright manner. "I thought about having Mathews bunt," he said. "But Eddie has good power and is a left-handed pull hitter. With that short right field porch an inviting target I wanted to give him a chance to hit that long one for us."

Left-hander Don Mossi of Cleveland, summoned out of the bullpen to relieve Chicago southpaw Billy Pierce, got Mathews on a called third strike. Banks followed with a single which would have tied the score had Eddie advanced the two runners.

"Had I known Eddie would strike out and Banks would hit that single," the skipper of the Brooklyn Dodgers said with a smile. "I would have had Mathews bunt."

"As for Bell, I think he did the right thing. In fact, I was glad to see him trying for third. He wanted that tying run on third with only one out. Gus is a good base runner. He thought he had a chance and he gambled. You can't sit and wait in this game. It took a perfect throw to get him and Mino made it."

"About Robinson, I can't see how anyone can criticize him. Maybe the fans up in the stands had a better view but we on the field couldn't tell whether Kaline caught Mathews' liner or not."

Robinson said he thought Kaline had a good chance to catch the ball and he was afraid of being doubled up.

Bell told newsmen in the dressing room that he thought he was safe at third.

"I thought I had a good chance to make it when Malone slowed up Banks' hit," he said. "I would never have run had he not touched the ball. Mino played it perfectly and got off a quick throw. I thought I made it but maybe I didn't."

Ironically, the best pitcher of the day was Bunning, whom Casey nominated to start only because Cleveland's Early Wynn, his original choice, had been used Sunday.

Bunning hurled three perfect innings, retiring nine batters in succession as Stengel's crew built up a 2-0 lead against Philadelphia's Curt Simmons.

Loes also kept the National League sluggers from scoring during the next three innings while the American Leaguers increased their lead to 3-0 in the sixth after Burdette had stopped them in the third, fourth and fifth.

It was while Wynn was on the mound that the National Leaguers first scored. Singles by New York's Willie Mays and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey and a pinch hit double by Bell reduced the AL lead to 3-2 in the seventh.

Pierce halted the rally but he was shelved from the mound in the ninth after the American League had opened up a 6-2 margin with three ninth-inning runs—only one earned—against Clem Labine of Brooklyn. Kaline drove in two and scored the other.

A walk to Stan Musial, May's triple and a wild pitch produced two NL runs with nobody out. When pinch hitter Hank Foiles of Pittsburgh singled and Bell walked, Mossi took over and struck out Mathews.

Banks' run-scoring single, on which Bell was nipped at third for the second out, caused Stengel to call upon his own ace reliever, right-hander Bob Grim, to pitch to pinch hitter Gil Hodges with B. nks, representing the tying run, on second. The Dodger first baseman drilled Grim's second pitch on a line to left field but Mino grabbed it or the run to end the game.

And so the American League won its 14th game to 10 for the National League in All-Star competition.

Experts Ponder Reasons for AL All-Star Victory

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—Chicago's Minnie Mino and Detroit's Jim Bunning and Al Kaline were singled out today as the 1957 All-Star Game heroes, but some critics attributed the American League's 6-5 victory Tuesday to good breaks, poor National League base running and Casey Stengel luck.

Each side scored three times in the ninth inning. A fine throw and catch by Mino preserved the American's second triumph in the last eight years and Stengel's second success in seven All-Star games. Mino's double in the top of the ninth drove in Kaline with the winning run.

The crowd of 30,693 witnessed splendid pitching by young Bunning, Baltimore's Billy Loes and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, and by Kaline and Mino. They also saw several plays that will be second-guessed for many weeks.

Girtons on Rampage In Babe Ruth Game

Girtons scored 11 runs to back up the no-hit pitching of Eddie Julieratt here Tuesday evening as the Girton nine defeated Bloomington, 11-2 in a Babe Ruth League game.

In registering the best pitching performance of the season, Julieratt struck out four and walked seven. The walks were responsible for the two tallies made by the visitors.

While the Bloomington boys were helpless at the hands of No-hit Julieratt, the Girton team was more successful with Mike Evans, Bloomington hurler. Although Evans was nipped for only six hits, the Girtons managed to fare well in the runs column.

Only extra-base hit in the game was a triple by Girton short-stop Bud Lynch.

30-Year-Old Chalks 4-Under-Par Score To Pace Ohio Tournament

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The 51st Ohio Amateur golf championship went into its second qualifying round today with 185 contestants trying to catch Robert Davis, 30-year-old Cincinnati electrical equipment manufacturer, who manufactured a sub-par 68 in Tuesday's opening 18-hole round.

Davis fired five birdies and one bogie for a 34-34-68 over Springfield's Country Club's 6,545-yard, par-36-36-72 course to take a one-stroke lead for the medal honors.

With 66 of the 186 entrants firing scores of 78 or better for the opening 18-hole round, indications are that scores of 156 will be necessary to qualify for the 64 match-play spots.

A stroke behind Davis is Bud Anderson of Alliance, 37-year-old ex-caddy who reached the semifinals in 1954. Anderson, who spent three years in the South Pacific during World War II as an infantry sergeant, is president of the Stark County Golf Assn.

Tied for third place with two-under-par 70s are Pamel Savic, Columbus, former Ohio State quarterback, and 19-year-old Dave Samartori, ex-caddy from Sandusky.

Bob Shave Jr. of Cleveland, 21-year-old finalist last year, is all alone at 71 and tied at par-72 are Harry Wilson of Cleveland, Andy Santor of Youngstown, Joe Myers of the host club and Eddie Bohardt of Dayton, who paced the 18-man public links contingent.

The highly touted stars are close behind. Deadlocked at 73 are Francis Carder of Columbus, the 1952 amateur champion; Bob Rankin of Zanesville, the winner in 1955; and Bob Ross of Springfield, the home town pride who won the 1955 and 1956 state Junior title.

In contention are Ed Preisler of Cleveland, 1946 Amateur champion and Jack Zimmerman of Dayton, two-time State Public Links titleholder and Amateur finalist in 1955 with 74s.

With scores of 156 for the two 18-hole rounds expected to qualify, some of the hotshots are on the ragged edge. Among them are Jackie Nicklaus 17-year-old Columbus Open champion, with 76, Hamilton Jedges, Columbus, winner of the recent state Pre-Seniors title, with 77, and Tom Jones of Youngstown, red-haired 1951 champion with 78.

Barney Hunt, former state Public Links champion from Columbus, had a 79; Larry Snyder of Athens, the 1957 Junior champion checked in with 82; and John Florio of Columbus, 1929 and 1932 state Amateur king, soared to an 88, which apparently put him out of the running.

The low 64 scorers after today's round go into match play Thursday in a pair of 18-hole round contests. The same program is on for Friday, Saturday's semi-finals and Sunday's championship match will be over the 36-hole route.

Jets End Slump And Win 12-2

The Jets broke out of a slump at Wilson Field Tuesday night as they drubbed the Cubs, 12-2 in the second game of a Little League twin bill.

Mike Burris got the Jets back to their winning way with a 5-hitter while his teammates were pounding two Cub pitchers for a total of six hits and 12 runs.

Although no Jet was able to get more than one hit, six Cub errors, along with some clutch hits, were sufficient for their tallies.

Gary Kimball led the 5-hit attack by the Cubs with two hits off the left-handed slant of Burris.

In tonight's doubleheader at Wilson Field, the Realtors will meet the Cubs in the first game and the Cowboys will go against the Kernels in the second.

Legion Juniors Play Tie Game

The Washington C. H. Junior Legion nine and the Greenfield team played to a 1-1 tie at Bloomingburg Tuesday evening when the game was called at the end of the seventh inning because of darkness.

Roger Shackleford, left hander, was the starting hurler for Washington C. H. Shackleford pitched four innings, striking out six, and walking only one. Billy Herman replaced him on the hill and worked three innings while striking out six, walking one and giving up the only Greenfield tally.

The Washington team showed improvement in the field but was still weak at the plate, getting only five safeties. Jim Smith continued to carry the hitting load with two for three. A lack of clutch hitting was again shown by the Washington C. H. nine as 10 runners were left on the bases.

The Junior Legion team, sponsored by the Pennington Bakery will play its next game Sunday at Portsmouth, the second game of the tournament.

WILMINGTON (AP) — Charles R. Schmidt, 1953 graduate of Wilmington College, is the new basketball coach at Wilmington High School. Basketball coach at Georgetown High School for the last two years, he succeeds James Midlam, who resigned to take a coaching job at Pleasant Twp. School, Marion County.

Flashes Stage Rally To Nose Out Kernels

The Flashes scored two runs in the last inning Tuesday evening to defeat the Kernels 3-2 in the first game of a Little League double-header at Wilson Field.

The Kernels tallied twice in the first inning, but they were then shut-out for the remaining five frames.

The Flashes scored their winning runs on a double, error and sacrifice fly. Myron Lambert was safe in the last inning on a Kernel miscue and Billy Henderson followed with a double. With runners on second and third and none out, Billy Halliday sent a long fly to centerfielder Warner. Lambert scored easily from third after the catch and Henderson also tallied when Warner's throw got away from the catcher.

The Flashes' other tally came in the third when Ronnie Lindsey pelted a home run.

Hurling for the Kernels was Harry O'Call who was tough enough to win most games. He struck-out four and walked only one.

Billy Henderson, the winning Flash pitcher, fanned out 11 and walked five.

The 10-round bout, the fourth involving Hernandez and Vaughn, will be televised and broadcast nationally at 9 p. m. EST and will be scored under the five point must system.

Hernandez and Vaughn battled to two 10 round draws before Hernandez scored a two-round knockout over his opponent in 1954.

Experts Ponder Reasons for AL All-Star Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chicago's Minnie Minoso and Detroit's Jim Bunning and Al Kaline were singled out today as the 1957 All-Star Game heroes, but some critics attributed the American League's 6-5 victory Tuesday to good breaks, poor National League base running and Casey Stengel luck.

Each side scored three times in the ninth inning. A fine throw and catch by Minoso preserved the American's second triumph in the last eight years and Stengel's second success in seven All-Star games. Minoso's double in the top of the ninth drove in Kaline with the winning run.

The crowd of 30,693 witnessed splendid pitching by young Bunning, Baltimore's Billy Loes and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, and by Kaline and Minoso. They also saw several plays that will be second-guessed for many weeks.

Why did National League Manager Walter Alton decide to let Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews swing away in the ninth inning? The potential tying runs were on second and first, and with nobody out, strategy cried for a bunt.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Gus Bell stop at second on Chicago Cub stop at second on Chicago Cub stop at second on Chicago Cub Ernie Banks' one-out run-scoring single in the ninth which cut the American's lead to 6-5? Bell tried to advance to third and was an easy out on Minoso's throw to Boston's Frank Malzone.

Why didn't Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who had opened the National's fifth with a single, run to second on Mathews' apparent line drive hit to right field? Instead, Robinson retreated after going halfway and was thrown out at second by Kaline, who made a one-handed stab of the ball on the first bounce.

Alton, who used all but four of his 25 players, defended his own action and that of his players in a forthright manner.

"I thought about having Mathews bunt," he said, "But Eddie has good power and is a left-handed pull hitter. With that short right field porch an inviting target I wanted to give him a chance to hit that long one for us."

Left-hander Don Mossi of Cleveland, summoned out of the bullpen to relieve Chicago southpaw Billy Pierce, got Mathews on a called third strike. Banks followed with a single which would have tied the score had Eddie advanced the two runners.

"Had I known Eddie would strike out and Banks would hit that single," the skipper of the Brooklyn Dodgers said with a smile, "I would have had Mathews bunt."

"As for Bell, I think he did the right thing. In fact, I was glad to see him trying for third. He wanted that tying run on third with only one out. Gus is a good base runner. He thought he had a chance and he gambled. You can't sit and wait in this game. It took a perfect throw to get him and Minoso made it."

"About Robinson, I can't see how anyone can criticize him. Maybe the fans up in the stands had a better view but we on the field couldn't tell whether Kaline caught Mathews' liner or not."

Robinson said he thought Kaline had a good chance to catch the ball and he was afraid of being doubled up.

Bell told newsmen in the dressing room that he thought he was safe at third.

"I thought I had a good chance to make it when Malone slowed up Banks' hit," he said, "I would never have run had he not touched

Girtons on Rampage In Babe Ruth Game

Girtons scored 11 runs to back up the no-hit pitching of Eddie Julierat here Tuesday evening as the Girton nine defeated Bloomingburg, 11-2 in a Babe Ruth League game.

In registering the best pitching performance of the season, Julierat struck out four and walked seven. The walks were responsible for the two tallies made by the visitors.

While the Bloomingburg boys were helpless at the hands of No-hit Julierat, the Girton team was more successful with Mike Evans, Bloomingburg hurler. Although Evans was nicked for only six hits, the Girtons managed to fare well in the runs column.

Only extra-base hit in the game was a triple by Girton short-stop Bud Lynch.

Loes also kept the National League sluggers from scoring during the next three innings while the American Leaguers increased their lead to 3-0 in the sixth—after Burdette had stopped them in the third, fourth and fifth.

It was while Wynn was on the mound that the National Leaguers first scored. Singles by New York's Willie Mays and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey and a pinch hit double by Bell reduced the AL lead to 3-2 in the seventh.

Pierce halted the rally but he was shelled from the mound in the ninth after the American League had opened up a 6-2 margin with three ninth-inning runs—only one earned—against Clem Labine of Brooklyn. Kaline drove in two and scored the other.

A walk to Stan Musial, May's triple and a wild pitch produced two NL runs with nobody out. When pinch hitter Hank Folles of Pittsburgh singled and Bell walked, Mossi took over and struck out Mathews.

Banks' run-scoring single, on which Bell was nipped at third for the second out, caused Stengel to call upon his own ace reliever, right-hander Bob Grim, to pitch to pinch hitter Gil Hodges with B.nks, representing the tying run, on second. The Dodger first baseman drilled Grim's second pitch on a line to left field but Minoso grabbed it or the run to end the game.

And so the American League won its 14th game to 10 for the National League in All-Star competition.

Herb Score Weds Former Classmate

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Herb Score, injured Cleveland Indians pitching star, and Miss Nancy McNamara, his Lake Worth, Fla., high school classmate, were married here today at St. Mark's Roman Catholic Church.

The couple's wedding trip plans were not divulged, but Score is due in Cleveland Monday for an eye examination which may determine how soon he can return to baseball.

Score joined the Indians as a bonus player and became American League strikeout king before a batted ball injured his eye early last June.

At 8 p.m., parents and friends of school members are invited to view a display of handwork done by the boys and girls. After the display a formal program of songs, dramatizations, Bible verses and poems will be presented by each department of the school.

Quirk Frees Convict in Ohio's Pen

COLUMBUS (AP)—An Ohio Penitentiary convict has won his freedom through the failure of a grand jury foreman to sign an armed robbery indictment against him.

The case set a precedent in Ohio law, according to Judge Myron B. Gessaman of Franklin County Common Pleas Court, who ordered the release Tuesday of James L. Kennedy, 30, of Canton.

Kennedy, who asked the court to review his case, was sentenced from Canton to serve a 10-25 year term. He entered prison May 31, 1956.

On July 8, 1955, Kennedy was indicted by a Stark County grand jury after he pleaded innocent but Judge Gessaman said, the jury foreman failed to sign the indictment, and it is "clear that the intention of the General Assembly was that the signature of the foreman is an indispensable requisite to a valid indictment."

All proceedings following the indictment were declared void by Judge Gessaman, who ruled Kennedy's "commitment to the penitentiary illegal."

Ohio Capital Set For CD Exercise

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's seat of government moves to Delaware Friday as part of the nation's annual Civil Defense exercise.

Gov. C. William O'Neill and other state officials will move to Ohio Wesleyan University. Ohio's plans for participation in "Operation Alert 1957" were announced Tuesday by Adj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber after a Cabinet meeting in the governor's office.

Plans call for five of the state's critical target cities to be "atom-bombed." The target cities are Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Canton, Youngstown, Steubenville, Cincinnati and Dayton.

Youngsters of the Carolyn Rd. and Park Dr. neighborhood carried out a worthwhile project of their own and had fun doing it when they staged a "carnival" and "carnival."

The money they took in will be given to the Infantile Paralysis Foundation chairman here to help carry on the fight against polio.

Two Clubs Here May Be Cited

Invaded Tuesday By State Officers

Two pinball machines and "handful" of bingo cards were taken from two Washington C. H. social clubs Tuesday night by agents of the State Liquor Department Enforcement Division.

Gambling citations against the clubs "will be requested," Pearl Baker, agent in charge of the Columbus enforcement district, said.

Baker identified the clubs as the Moose Lodge, 244 1/2 E. Court St., and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, 110 1/2 S. Fayette St. "It may be a week or 10 days before the Liquor Control Board decides whether to issue a citation," Baker said.

The Moose Lodge raid was made at 9:25 p. m., while the one at the VFW raid came at 10:05 p. m. Baker said Agents entered the clubs, confiscated the equipment, and left.

THE BINGO cards came from the Moose, while the pinball machines were taken from the VFW, he reported. Both were confiscated under a Liquor Board regulation which prohibits gambling devices on premises where a liquor permit is in effect.

"Any chance machine or game of chance which offers prizes of monetary value is considered a gambling device," he explained.

The raids were made on the strength of complaints filed with the department, he said. Local police aided in confiscating the machines, but Baker said he did "not believe they aided in the raids themselves."

Baker would not divulge how many agents took part in the raids.

Retail Merchants Plan Promotions

Several sales promotion plans were discussed by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting Wednesday morning.

The committee also discussed house-to-house selling, peddlers etc. and agreed to continue its study with a view to drafting an ordinance to check this type of itinerant selling. The ordinance, when it is completed, will be submitted to council for its consideration.

The meeting, described as one of the best and with one of the biggest turnouts in a long time, was presided over by Jack Daves, the new committee chairman.

Walter Morrow, the new president of the Chamber of Commerce, also attended the meeting, but merely as an observer.

First Evidence Is Awaited In Clinton Segregation Trial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Federal attorneys set out today to unveil the evidence in the charges against 16 segregationists accused of forcibly interfering with enrollment of Negroes in a small-town Tenn. high school.

"This lawsuit is shaping history," a defense lawyer solemnly asserted in U.S. District Court.

The trial, involving integration at Clinton, Tenn., High School, has been heralded as a major test of the U.S. government's power to enforce the Supreme Court order to end segregation in the public schools.

The all-white jury, 10 men and two women, was completed late Tuesday.

On trial are 15 white Tennesseans, including a pregnant, teenage housewife.

The 16th defendant is John Kasper, lanky, owl-eyed native of New Jersey. He is accused of coming to Clinton and stirring up the riots that took place when Negro students entered the high school.

Kasper, like the other 15, is being tried for criminal contempt. All are accused of violating a federal court injunction against interfering with racial integration at the school.

BUT NEITHER he nor the battery of lawyers defending the Tennesseans concealed their distaste for the joint trial. Kasper is represented solely by J. Benjamin Simmons of Washington, D. C.

Kasper reported: "They (the other defense lawyers) came into this when they heard money was being raised. Politics and publicity were behind it too."

Robert L. Dobbs of Memphis spokesman for the defense lawyers, said there is no coordination of any kind with Simmons.

"I don't know what he plans to do, or if he will call any witnesses or anything else," Dobbs said.

"I don't suppose Simmons is any prouder of being with us than we are of being with him." Questioning by the opposing lawyers foreshadowed a major area of battle in the trial.

U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford pounded at the candidates on one theme—respect for law, even when they disagreed with a legal order.

"Do you believe a citizen has a right to decide for himself which law he will obey and which ones he will not obey?"

In swift reply, when his turn came, Dobbs asked whether the candidate knew the rights guaranteed by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. "Do you believe every person has a right to express his opinion about a law? Do you believe in freedom of speech, of the right of assembly? Would you grant those freedoms to these 15 defendants?"

Penguins use their flattened wings literally to "fly" under water.

The daily vacation Bible School of the Bloomington Presbyterian Church will close its sessions of the past two weeks with a program Friday evening at the church.

At 8 p.m., parents and friends of school members are invited to view a display of handwork done by the boys and girls. After the display a formal program of songs, dramatizations, Bible verses and poems will be presented by each department of the school.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Orville Mickle and Mrs. Paul Elliott, co-chairman, the general theme studied was "Wider Relationship." Each department followed a sub-theme suitable to its age group.

In charge of the nursery department have been Mary Cook and Sandra Evans. Theme for this department was "The 3's at Vacation Church School."

Mrs. Lewis Parrett, Mrs. Darrell Coil and Linda Parrett were the kindergarten leaders with the theme of that department being "Friends Near and Far."

Mrs. Howard Foster, Mrs. Jack Sollars and Judy McFadden were in charge of the primary department and their theme was "Our Families."

LEADERS OF the junior department have been Miss Hazel Engle, Mrs. Jerry Cary, Miss Anne Craig and Mrs. Orville Mickle. The theme set up for the junior department was "Meet Your Neighbors."

Mrs. Harry Craig, Mrs. Mark Morris were the junior high leaders and the theme for that department has been "God's World and Ours."

Arts and crafts have been under the direction of Beverly Evans; music under the direction of Mrs. Paul Elliott, Judy McFadden, Linda Parrett, Anne Craig, Sandra Evans and Alice Craig. Secretary of this year's sessions has been Mrs. Harry Locke.

Each afternoon the boys and girls of the school have enjoyed refreshments served by committees from the Matron's Class and the United Fellowship Class of the Sunday School.

Quirk Frees Convict in Ohio's Pen

COLUMBUS (AP)—An Ohio Penitentiary convict has won his freedom through the failure of a grand jury foreman to sign an armed robbery indictment against him.

The case set a precedent in Ohio law, according to Judge Myron B. Gessaman of Franklin County Common Pleas Court, who ordered the release Tuesday of James L. Kennedy, 30, of Canton. Kennedy, who asked the court to review his case, was sentenced from Canton to serve a 10-25 year term. He entered prison May 31, 1956.

On July 8, 1955, Kennedy was indicted by a Stark County grand jury after he pleaded innocent but Judge Gessaman said, the jury foreman failed to sign the indictment, and it is "clear that the intention of the General Assembly was that the signature of the foreman is an indispensable requisite to a valid indictment."

All proceedings following the indictment were declared void by Judge Gessaman, who ruled Kennedy's "commitment to the penitentiary illegal."

Two Clubs Here May Be Cited

Invaded Tuesday By State Officers

Two pinball machines and "handful" of bingo cards were taken from two Washington C. H. social clubs Tuesday night by agents of the State Liquor Department Enforcement Division.

Gambling citations against the clubs "will be requested," Pearl Baker, agent in charge of the Columbus enforcement district, said.

Baker identified the clubs as the Moose Lodge, 244 1/2 E. Court St., and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, 110 1/2 S. Fayette St. "It may be a week or 10 days before the Liquor Control Board decides whether to issue a citation," Baker said.

The Moose Lodge raid was made at 9:25 p. m., while the one at the VFW raid came at 10:05 p. m. Baker said Agents entered the clubs, confiscated the equipment, and left.

THE BINGO cards came from the Moose, while the pinball machines were taken from the VFW, he reported. Both were confiscated under a Liquor Board regulation which prohibits gambling devices on premises where a liquor permit is in effect.

"Any chance machine or game of chance which offers prizes of monetary value is considered a gambling device," he explained.

The raids were made on the strength of complaints filed with the department, he said. Local police aided in confiscating the machines, but Baker said he did "not believe they aided in the raids themselves."

Baker would not divulge how many agents took part in the raids.

Retail Merchants Plan Promotions

Several sales promotion plans were discussed by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting Wednesday morning.

The committee also discussed house-to-house selling, peddlers etc. and agreed to continue its study with a view to drafting an ordinance to check this type of itinerant selling. The ordinance, when it is completed, will be submitted to council for its consideration.

The meeting, described as one of the best and with one of the biggest turnouts in a long time, was presided over by Jack Daves, the new committee chairman.

Walter Morrow, the new president of the Chamber of Commerce, also attended the meeting, but merely as an observer.

First Evidence Is Awaited In Clinton Segregation Trial
